

THE COMING CHAUTAUQUA.

The Assembly to Be Held at Crete Expected to Eclipse All Former Ones.

A PRESS BUILDING PLANNED.

The City Engineer Advertises For Bids For Paving—District Court Proceedings—Capital City Happenings.

[FROM THE BEE'S LINCOLN BUREAU.]

The Nebraska Chautauqua assembly that will be held at Crete on the handsome assembly grounds, commencing June 29, promises to exceed in interest and entertainment all former gatherings. The admirable success of the summer's meeting a year ago placed the Crete assembly as one of the prominent fixtures of the state, and this year promises to eclipse any former gathering. Dr. A. E. Dunning, of Boston, will be heretofore, he the superintendent in charge, and Mr. F. L. Foss, of Crete, the president of the assembly, is now actively at work, as he has been for some time past, in the work of a preliminary nature. Among the lecturers already secured are Dr. George F. Pentecost, of Brooklyn; Frank Beard, the artist who so delighted every visitor to the grounds last year; Colonel Homer B. Sprague, of California; Hon. George W. Bain, of Kentucky; Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson, of Chicago; Dr. J. T. Duray, of Boston, and A. E. Winship, of Boston, editor of the New England Journal of Education. The musical department will be, as heretofore, one of the great attractions. Prof. W. F. Sherwin, of Chicago, whose name is a household word in musical circles, assisted by Prof. C. A. Boyle, of the Baptist university of Kansas, will have charge of all classes in music, and the celebrated Schubert quartette will, with other singers, be in attendance through the days of the assembly. The general departments all classes to accommodate students will be in charge of experienced teachers, the list including such names as J. D. Stewart, Rev. A. A. Wright, of the assembly, and others of theology, Prof. R. S. Holmes, Mrs. M. G. Kennedy, and others. The Lincoln circle, the largest in the state, which numbers a membership of nearly one hundred, will make its headquarters at the entire assembly on the grounds, and will be glad to welcome all Chautauquans in the state to the hospitable tent that they will spread. In conversation with President Foss, that gentleman stated that the program was now in the hands of the printers, and would soon be ready for distribution. Mr. Foss also states that lawyers' day—that was instituted at the assembly last year—will be a feature of the coming gathering. The lawyers of the state have raised nearly $1,000 for a building that will be built at once in readiness for the summer meeting. The lawyers' building will be one of the finest on the grounds, and will establish the permanency of their summer meetings hereafter.

The Nebraska Press association will also build for themselves an editors' home on the grounds, and have their building and their special day on the program. At the annual meeting of the association in Omaha, and at a later meeting in Lincoln, collections were taken for this building fund and $188 were raised toward the building. While the newspaper men do not expect to build a $1,000 building, they want to make as good a show as possible in this line, and they will build with their own funds they may raise. The president, secretary, and Mr. J. W. Craig, of the Press association, are the building committee, and they desire all who are willing to contribute to this fund, great or small, to forward names and amount to the secretary, J. A. McMurphy, at Wahoo, or the president, H. M. Bushnell, at Lincoln. The association will make a personal visit to the journalists of Omaha, in the interests of the building fund. Editors' day at the assembly will have its own program. A. E. Winship, of the New England Journal of Education, is already secured, and a partial promise has been made by Bob Burdette, and Judge Goodwin, of the Salt Lake Tribune, will be secured if possible. It will be one of the most interesting and profitable meetings of the association, and pave the way for permanent summer meetings at the home on the grounds.

WAR AND FORGERY. A case of forgery was commenced in Justice Brown's court and yesterday transferred by change of venue to Justice Cochran's court, and will be on call in court to-day. The plaintiff and defendant are both real estate men, and the forgery claimed, according to the complaint, is in altering a contract, if it is established as such, in which the question of commission on the sale of real estate is in play. The contract was made without date on an envelope and is memoranda. The complaining witness claims that in this two-thirds was changed to one-third by the defendant in the case with the intent to defraud.

A CHANCE FOR REFORM. The present administration has an opportunity to reform the bold and defiant commission of houses of ill-fame and their runners in if it is half as anxious for reform as it pretends to be. The city is notorious enough with the bold operators of these classes, and if the social evil cannot be obliterated it ought at least to be subdued and kept more from public view. If the mayor would issue a proclamation and exert half as much power against these classes as he did against good, reputable citizens in relation to the city law, he could impress people more favorably with the fact that he honestly desired reform. One or two raids for fines is all the attention thus far given the social evil by reform elements in the city government.

PRELIMINARIES TO PAVING. The city engineer has advertised for contracts for paving bids to be received up to noon on the 28th inst., and plans of work required to be seen at the engineer's office after the 20th. Bids are asked on paving with the following materials and accompanying estimates of cost: Sioux Falls or other granite, $3.75; Colorado sandstone, $3.65; macadam, $2.00; cedar blocks, $1.90; block asphalt, $3.35; sheet asphalt, $3.10; brick, $1.75. The advertising also calls for curbing, and fixes estimates per cubic foot, also gutter stone crosswalk stone and grading. This will, if the bids as submitted are satisfactory, place the city in readiness to commence active work paving by June 1, which date is late enough for a commencement.

DISTRICT COURT. To-day the May term of the district court will open for the term, and a voluminous lot of cases will be up for hearing, but few, however, being of much importance. Among the original cases for trial, however, will be the trial of Mrs. Shellenbeger, at Nebraska City, for the murder of her child, and for which offense her husband now lies in jail awaiting execution. Since a change of venue was granted in the case of Mrs. Shellenbeger she has been confined in the Lancaster county jail, and at all times has been on her good behavior and evidently proposes to commit no act to prejudice her case. She seems ready and willing for trial, and expresses a confident belief that she will come out of the ordeal all right. County Attorney Strode will prosecute the case and T. B. Stevenson, of Nebraska City, will defend.

Among the other criminal cases to try will be the one against Dr. Cooley for abortion and foeticide, the particulars of which are fresh in the minds of all, being fully published at the time of his victim's death. This case was carried over the last term of court, but will be tried the present one. Two cases of forgery are also awaiting a hearing.

ABOUT THE CITY. The city was in its normal condition yesterday, in direct contradiction to the turmoil of a week ago, when the bids were being enforced by the mayor. The contrast was a pleasing one to every lover of good order, and under the new ordinance future disturbances on Sunday will be avoided.

The police raided some of the houses of ill-fame Saturday night and made several captures, two of whom were in jail over yesterday awaiting trial, while others settled matters by putting up the necessary to meet fines. One man, in making his escape from a second-story dive, leaped from the rear balcony to the ground, a distance of some twenty feet, and became hid in the deep darkness of the back alley.

To-day the Hastings and Lincolns play at Athletic park, and it is not needless to say that the game will be watched with intense interest. Fully 2,000 people watched Saturday's game and many more will be at the game to-day. Lincoln is playing ball and the lovers of the game appreciate it.

A handsome painting was to be seen in Oakley's show window yesterday and many stopped to admire it. The painting represents Spring tripping through the open glades in a forest, wreathed in flowers and full of life and grace. The painting is the work of Mrs. Van Aistyne, a Lincoln lady, whose artistic work is the subject of many encomiums and who has exhibited in a forest, wreathed in flowers and full of life and grace. Real estate transfers the past week in the capital city aggregated over $100,000, and the market and demand were apparently quiet. The prediction that the boom would boom as never before when paving commenced, promises in the hands of the promoters of the present to be more than realized.

Lend Your Constitution a Hand.

Constitutions are much alike, and in nine-tenths of us the same causes produce the same effects. Vertigo, dizziness, or pain of any kind, excepting that of an injury, can come only when there is in our bodies some impurity of blood, which we have not sufficient vitality to throw off without help. Therefore, the proper thing to do is to get the necessary help. No aid is so effective as Beaman's Pills. When you feel that your blood is impure, take three of these pills, according to your weight, and be relieved at once. Never put off the feeling by thinking you will soon be over it. Take the pills and do not rack the constitution.

For fear of losing a day's work, many persons put off taking physic until Saturday. The better plan is to not delay but take it as soon as needed, it may save you a hard spell of sickness. If you want the most benefit from the least amount of physic, without causing you any inconvenience, loss of appetite or rest, take St. Patrick's Pills. Their action on the liver and bowels are thorough, they give a freshness, tone and vigor to the whole system and act in harmony with nature.

Sketches From the Life of Henry M. Majilton.

ASTONISHING AND AGILE ACTS. How he Started Europe—Jocko, the Brazilian Ape—A Performer who Saved His Salary and is Happy.

In a cozy home in Ellsworth street in Philadelphia lives Henry M. Majilton, who for thirteen years of his early life was the wonder of showmen and who has been for twenty-five years more than a wonder to those who know him because of the marvelous cheerfulness with he has endured a life of physical inanity caused by a paralysis of his lower extremities, the result of a spinal dislocation following a fall while doing a flying trapeze act in the London Alhambra in March, 1861.

His first venture in "the business" was in 1818, when he was engaged as a "trumpeter" by Aaron Turner, whose circus started from Hamilton, O., and worked the season East through New York and New England. His salary was $9 a week and found, and the best performer in the show did not get more than three the sum. "Tim Turner," says the Philadelphia Times, who was the first to turn a somersault on a horse's back, was the principal rider, and there was a four horse act rider and a scenic rider (changing costumes while in full career), a clown, acrobats, slack rope dancer, about ten performers in all, and about sixty people in all with the show, which exhibited in a forty foot ring under a single pole tent of 100 feet diameter, holding, on a pin, nearly 1,000 people. "There was a stand and two shows every day; the expense was not over $300 a day, and when the weather was good about that amount was cleared. In those cheap days 50 cents a day paid for the tent, for men, and from 15 to 25 cents a day for the horse. There were no lady performers with the show, and yet it was considered a very good circus in its day. Majilton was with Turner two seasons, during which time he imitated the three peacocks in an act, and permitted a great enlargement of the canvas, and which is used by all the traveling circuses outside of such big shows as Barnum's or Forcypais to-day. In 1830 he engaged with Spaulding & Rogers, and remained with them until 1858, working his way up to the top of his profession by hard work, sobriety, a genius for universality and a rare invention of new and supposed impossible acts, and commanding the biggest salary of the day. He was with Spaulding & Rogers when they ran their floating circus up and down the Mississippi river, and visited tributaries, and it was while with these managers that he made himself famous in his character of Jocko, in "Jocko, or the Brazilian Ape."

The original of the character was Henry Leech, an Englishman, whose professional name was Otto Motli. His body was the size of an ordinary man, but his legs were only a foot long, yet such was his agility that he could outrun on all fours, a very fair runner. His skeleton is in Mme. Tussaud's exhibition in London. The Ravens afterward introduced the character in their pantomimes, but it was left to Majilton to bring it to perfection. He had wonderful strength in his hands and could walk with his hands hanging under an ordinary foot pole, his arms and hands depending upon the tip between his thumbs and their opposing fingers, with perfect ease; and he occasionally astonished a brigadier of the profession by walking on his hands, and holding on to the hawser with which the steamer was towed by the steamer. This singular faculty made him an expert climber and he would run up and down the interior of the circus and rail cars, and would run along them with an agility that no ape could excel. He fairly rolled with laughter when he told how he freighted the colored people on the Mississippi.

One occasion, when he leaped among them, chattering and grinning, many jumped, in their fright, through the windows of the circus into the river, and were rescued with the greatest difficulty. "For God's sake, stop this," said Spaulding afterward, "or we will have dead niggers to pay for!" In December, 1854, while playing in Charleston, he created almost a panic in the theater. One of the women, who was stationed in the third tier, with a stuffed baby, and Majilton, in his Jocko act, snatched it from her, and jumping to the side of the proscenium boxes, beat his head against the ceiling, and threw it to the stage, and jumped on the women yelling all the while and the audience in a terrible uproar of terror and indignation.

Many of his acts were of his own invention, and two at least have never been performed since. In one or two of these he laid on his back on the end of a pole carried by a second on the stage in a waist socket, and in the apparently painful and perilous position a third performer climbed to him and hung from his feet and hands, and cut all sorts of dicos. It was to a great extent, however, a trick, as his weight was in an arm or from which protruded in the back an iron peg, which fitted a socket on the top of the pole, the peg being pulled into place before he climbed and after he descended from the pole, and giving no sign other than that of a man who had upon the pole's top. The other act was the double plate spinning, one of the performers standing on the head of the other and both spinning and exchanging plates by tossing them up and down.

In 1859, Majilton and four companions visited Europe, performing in France, Spain, Italy, Germany and England, making a great deal of money and establishing the acrobats and gymnasts across the water by their wonderful business. This tour ended with the accident to Majilton in 1861. He was for six months in London under the care of the ablest surgeons, who could do nothing for him and he has since resided in Philadelphia. "I have a competence is well known. "I always saved my money," he said, "and when other performers would spend my money for not going with them, and spending my money I would reply that it was my duty to earn my salary, and that if I got drunk I could not act. During his European tour he saved his money and spent it all in Philadelphia. He saved his money and is to-day independent, while all the others died in poverty. He has a nice home, a pony phaeton in which he drives to the theater, and employs his time in playing weather and music, being a very good performer on the violin and flute. Take him for all and all, and in spite of his affliction Henry M. Majilton is certainly a happy man.

There is not a cooking apparatus made using the Bold Oven Door, but that the loss in weight of meat is from twenty-five to forty per cent. of the meat roasted. In other words, a rib of beef, weighing ten pounds if roasted medium to well-done will lose three pounds. The same roasted in the Charter Oak Range using the Wire Gauze Oven Door loses about one pound.

To allow meat to shrink is to lose a large portion of its juices and flavor. The fire does not separate, and it becomes tough, tasteless and unpalatable.
